CITY OF WAUKEGAN NAMED AN ILLINOIS ARTS FRIENDLY COMMUNITY
Illinois Arts Alliance and Illinois Municipal League to Recognize the City of Waukegan on September 26, 2008 at IML Conference

Chicago and Springfield – The Illinois Arts Alliance (IAA) and the Illinois Municipal League (IML) selected 17 communities to receive the 2008 Illinois Arts Friendly Community Awards. The City of Waukegan captured one of 15 Honorable Mentions. The Village of Arlington Heights received the coveted Presidents' Choice Award, and the City of Effingham received the Presidents' Choice Award for a small community.

The City of Waukegan will be recognized as an Arts Friendly Community at the Illinois Municipal League's annual conference at the Chicago Hilton on Friday, September 26, 2008 by IML President Gerald Bennet, Mayor of Palos Hills; Alderman Rich Walker of the City of Edwardsville; and Mayor Al Larson of the Village of Schaumburg.

The historic Genesee Theatre is one reason for Waukegan's Arts Friendly designation. The Genesee Theatre's $23 million restoration was launched in 2001 as part of Waukegan's downtown revitalization initiative. Built in 1927, the Theatre was transformed into a 2400-seat, state-of-the-art performance center with a stage nearly double its original size. The 115,000 square foot complex is one of the largest in the region and is in the top five percent of the country's best stage houses. Since its grand re-opening in 2004, the Genesee Theatre has hosted a variety of high-quality entertainment and is home to Inside RMC, a mixed-media art exhibition showcasing work by Robert Morris College students and faculty.

The 15 communities receiving Honorable Mentions are Aurora, Bartlett, Belvidere, Carol Stream, Danville, Elmwood Park, Hickory Hills, Highland Park, Hoffman Estates, Lombard, Orland Park, Palatine, Princeton, Tinley Park, Urbana, and Waukegan.

"As one of the state's leading industries, the arts enhance our quality of life, fuel creativity and innovation, and contribute to an overall culture of excellence in our neighborhoods and schools," said Ra Joy, executive director of the Illinois Arts Alliance. "It's a great honor to celebrate local communities that recognize the arts and creativity as central and indispensable to their residents. I hope the strong and consistent support for the arts demonstrated by our 2008 award winners will serve as an inspiration to other communities in Illinois."

"By investing in the arts, we can inspire and strengthen our communities," said Al Larson, Village President of Schaumburg. "Each of these communities provides a model for how mayors can collaborate with arts organizations and artists to improve the quality of life of all residents." Schaumburg received the inaugural Presidents' Award in 2003.

The Illinois Arts Friendly Community Awards serve to recognize municipalities that support the arts and to celebrate municipal leaders who use the arts to build healthy communities. Two Presidents' Awards are presented annually – one to a small community with a population less than 20,000 and one to a larger community. Previous recipients of the Presidents' Awards are Schaumburg, Rockford, Rock Island, Carbondale, and Evanston (large community), and Fairfield, Palos Park, Prophetstown, Marshall, and Lincolnwood (small community).

All nominations are judged on four criteria: Is the municipality's commitment to the arts ongoing; Do the municipality's arts activities meet a clearly defined community needs, and are the results tangible; Is broad and diverse support for the municipality's arts activities present in the community; Is the municipality creative and innovative in integrating the arts with its overall municipal strategies?
